

1. Goal and responsibility

The Pioneers of Wine award recognises high quality products made from new, robust grape varieties with high resistance to disease, pests and/or climatic stress factors, thereby promoting the quality, sales and competitiveness of producers.

The holder of the award is the DLG e.V. (German Agricultural Society), Eschborner Landstraße 122, 60489 Frankfurt am Main, Germany. The quality test is carried out by DLG TestService GmbH (organiser). The organiser's registered office is Competence Center Food & Beverage, Wöllsteiner Straße 16, 55599 Gau-Bickelheim, Germany. The quality test consists of a sensory test and, if necessary, a random chemical/physical test. The technical management of the test is the responsibility of the authorised testing representative.

2. Participants (applicants)

All natural and legal persons from production and trade are eligible to participate. The applicant bears the sole responsibility for compliance with the legal provisions of the registered products as well as the award regulations.

3. Eligibility

Quality ready-to-use wines, quality sparkling wines and quality semi-sparkling wines as well as wines with geographical origin are eligible.

The products must comply with the applicable national legal provisions of the country of origin as well as the German and European legal provisions necessary for placing on the market, in the respective current version.

3.1 Vintages

Products of all vintages and without vintage can participate.

3.2 Grape varieties

The registered products must consist of at least 85 % (without taking into account the sugar reserve) of new, robust grape varieties with high resistance to diseases, pests and/or climatic stress factors with seed authorisation from 1992 or later.

3.3 Bottle stocks

At least 250 bottles must be in stock at the time of registration.

3.4 Number of bottles

The entire filling quantity in bottles of a lot number must always be declared.

3.5 Partial bottlings

The provision of partial bottlings is permitted.

When registering the samples, the total homogeneous quantity available and the quantity of the first partial bottling must be reported.

For each partial bottling, chemical/physical analyses of an approved (as defined in Section 23 of the German Wine Ordinance (WeinVO)) or accredited laboratory must be available, which allow clear identification of the product (see Number 5 of Appendix 10 of the German Wine Ordinance).

The use of the award on subsequent partial bottlings is only permitted if these are bottled within three months of the award being presented.

Any partial bottling must be declared to the organiser.

3.6 Several products with the same designation

If several products with the same designation are registered by the applicant, the individual products must always have been manufactured and stored separately and must bear different lot markings. Wines with an identical analysis will only be admitted once.

3.7 Multiple entries

A product that has already received an award in the "Pioneers of Wine" competition can be entered again. The current result always applies to the application.

All fees for applicants from Germany are exclusive of the statutory value added tax applicable at the time the service is provided.

8. Sensory test

8.1 Testers

DLG TestService GmbH forms neutral, independent test commissions for the sensory evaluation of the quality of the samples submitted. These consist of at least 4 experts (testers). The testers must hold the DLG Sensory Certificate for Wine & Sparkling Wine or a comparable qualification. The experts come from the wine industry and related fields and are appointed and used by DLG TestService GmbH on the basis of their knowledge, skills and experience.

8.2 Sample set-up and evaluation

The evaluation shall be carried out according to the DLG 5-point scheme® for wine and sparkling wine. The products are classified according to their product type, product category, quality level and flavour in a tasting and tasted in a concealed manner. Special product groups (e.g. sweet wines) can be tasted by a separate tasting group. Analysis data can be disclosed to the testers during testing. The evaluation result of a test group for a sample consists of the overall mark and, if applicable (in case of rejection), the associated property description or justification.

9. Chemical/physical analyses

Laboratory analyses (chemical, physical) are usually carried out to validate the sensory properties and/or to check the truth of the declaration.

Risk-based analyses

The identity of the samples with respect to the details of the analysis parameters on the registration form shall be verified by density measurements.

If necessary, the analyses can be extended on a risk-based, random basis.

10. Awards

An award shall be presented according to the quality score (QS) achieved: From 3.50 points, the product receives the "Pioneers of Wine" award.

11. Honorary awards

Particularly good overall performances of the participants can be presented with an honorary award. Honorary awards shall be awarded in three classes to the entrant with the highest average score.

For each participant, all products tested in the current year, but at least four, will be taken into account for the calculation of the honorary award. The current year is defined as the period of 12 months from the closing date for registration of the first test in the calendar year.

The overall performance of the participant must be at least 4.0 points on average according to the DLG 5-point scheme®.

Products rejected on the grounds of a "cork-like note" will not be taken into account in the calculation for the Honorary Award.

If several participants achieve the same number of points in the calculation for the honorary award, further honorary awards may be presented.
